1-a.2. Countercyclical capital buffer;

Article 65-c

(1) The bank shall calculate and maintain countercyclical capital buffers.

(2) Countercyclical capital buffer is a product of the risk-weighted assets and the specific rate of countercyclical capital buffer.

(3) The specific countercyclical buffer rate is a weighted average of the countercyclical buffer rates under Articles 65-d and 65-e of this law.

Article 65-d

(1) The National Bank Council shall adopt a methodology for setting countercyclical buffer rate for exposures in the Republic of North Macedonia.

(2) The methodology referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article shall be based on indicators that take account of the credit cycle, risks associated with credit growth and features of the domestic economy.

(3) The National Bank shall use the methodology referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article to quarterly set the countercyclical buffer rate for exposures in the Republic of North Macedonia and shall make an announcement on its website if this rate exceeds 0%.

(4) The countercyclical buffer rate under paragraph (3) of this Article may not exceed 2.5%.

(5) Notwithstanding, the National Bank may set higher countercyclical buffer rates for exposures in the Republic of North Macedonia if necessary based on the indicators laid down in the methodology of paragraph (1) of this Article.

(6) The announcement under paragraph (3) of this Article shall particularly contain the following information:

1) the rate of paragraph (3) of this Article;

2) indicator or indicators used to set the rate under paragraph (3) of this Article;

3) an explanation of the reasons for introducing or changing the rate under paragraph (1) of this Article;

4) the date on which the bank is required to apply the countercyclical buffer rate, if it introduces or increases the rate of paragraph (3) of this Article;

- 5) an explanation of the reasons for setting the date from which the bank is required to apply the countercyclical buffer rate, if the period of disseminating the rate is less than 12 months and
- 6) an indicative period where the rate is not expected to increase, indicating that this period can be changed in case of reducing the rate under paragraph (3) of this Article.

Article 65-e

- (1) For exposures in another country, the bank shall apply the countercyclical buffer rate which is published by the National Bank on its website.
- (2) In setting the rate under paragraph (1) of this Article, the National Bank should take account of the countercyclical buffer rate laid down by the competent authority of the other country.
- (3) The announcement under paragraph (1) of this Article shall particularly contain the following information:
 - 1) the rate of paragraph (1) of this Article and the referring country;
 - 2) an explanation of the reasons for introducing or changing the rate under paragraph (1) of this Article,
 - 3) the date on which the bank is required to apply the countercyclical buffer rate, if it introduces or increases the rate of paragraph (1) of this Article and
 - 4) an explanation of the reasons for setting the date from which the bank is required to apply the countercyclical buffer rate, if the period of disseminating the rate is less than 12 months.

1-a.3. Capital buffer for systemically important banks

Article 65-f

- (1) The National Bank Council shall prescribe the methodology for identifying systemically important banks containing criteria for identifying systemically important banks and manner of classifying systemically important banks in five subcategories to set the capital buffer for systemically important banks that may range from 1% to 3.5% of risk weighted assets.
- (2) Based on the methodology referred to in paragraph (1) of this Article, the National Bank shall at least once a year identify systemically important banks, classify them into the corresponding subcategories and set the capital buffer rate for the systemically important banks that each systemic important bank has to maintain for each subcategory.
- (3) The National Bank shall:
 - 1) notify each systemically important bank on the capital buffer rate it has to maintain and
 - 2) publish a list of systemically important banks on its website.
- (4) If a bank identified as systemically important is a subsidiary of a foreign bank, the National Bank shall notify the competent authority of the domicile country of the foreign bank on the introduced requirement to allocate capital buffer for systemically important banks.
- (5) If a bank identified as systemically important is a subsidiary of a bank from EU member country, the National Bank shall notify the European Commission and the European Systemic Risk Board on the introduced requirement to allocate capital buffer for systemically important banks.
- (6) A bank identified as systemically important shall develop a recovery plan as required in the recovery plan methodology.
- (7) The National Bank Council shall prescribe the recovery plan methodology of paragraph (6) of this Article containing the elements that make up the recovery plan, its submission to the National Bank and the evaluation method of the National Bank.

1-a.4. Systemic risk capital buffer

Article 65-g

(1) The Governor of the National Bank may prescribe a systemic risk capital buffer for all, or one or several banks in the country, if necessary for limiting the risk of disruption to the financial system or the national economy, due to activities of one or more banks or risks they are exposed to.

(2) Systemic risk capital buffer rate may range from 1% to 3% of risk weighted assets and may be different for various banks or groups of banks.

(3) The National Bank shall announce the introduction of systemic risk capital buffer on its website. The announcement shall particularly contain the following information:

- 1) systemic risk capital buffer rate,
- 2) the bank required to maintain the rate referred to item 1) of this paragraph,
- 3) an explanation of the reasons for introducing capital buffers, only if the explanation does not threaten the stability of the financial system in the country,
- 4) the date from which the bank is required to apply the systemic risk capital buffer rate and
- 5) the name of countries if the exposures to clients from those countries are subject to systemic risk capital buffer.

(4) Following the introduction of systemic risk capital buffer, the National Bank shall at least once every two years reconsider the need for revision or revocation of this capital buffer.

(5) If the requirement for maintaining systemic risk capital buffer refers to a bank which is a foreign bank subsidiary, the National Bank shall, at least a month before, notify the competent authority of the domicile country of the foreign bank on the introduced requirement.

(6) If the requirement for maintaining a systemic risk capital buffer refers to a subsidiary bank of a bank from an EU member country, the National Bank shall notify the European Commission and the European Systemic Risk Board.

(7) The National Bank shall notify the Government of the Republic of North Macedonia on the introduction of systemic risk capital buffer, at least a month before the announcement pursuant to paragraph (3) of this Article.

Article 65-h

(1) A bank that fulfills the total amount of capital buffers of Article 65-a of this Law shall not be allowed to distribute earnings related to the items of the Common Equity Tier I capital that would reduce the Common Equity Tier I capital and failure to fulfill the total amount of capital buffers.

(2) A bank that fails to fulfill the total amount of capital buffers of Article 65-a of this law shall calculate the maximum distributable amount in accordance with the methodology prescribed by the National Bank Council and shall inform the National Bank thereof.

(3) Without calculating the maximum distributable amount, the bank referred to in paragraph (2) of this Article shall not:

- 1) distribute the earnings related to the items of the Common Equity Tier I capital;
- 2) create an obligation to pay variable remuneration or to pay variable remuneration if the payment obligation was created at a time when the bank did not fulfill the total amount of capital buffers and
- 3) makes payments based on instruments that are part of the additional Tier I capital.

(4) The bank referred to in paragraph (2) of this Article may allocate, through the actions referred to in paragraph (3) of this Article, only the maximum distributable amount calculated in accordance with the methodology of paragraph (2) of this Article.
